ROY ZHAO

DESIGN MANAGER

Roy has over 15 years of New Zealand design experience. Roy started his career on the tools as a builder, before embarking on a successful architecture and design career. With both residential and industrial experience Roy has a deep understanding of design and a passion for value engineering. Roy has the unique ability to work collaboratively with cross functional teams to ensure a successful design outcome for the client. Roy is a highly valued member of the Novasteel team.

RESPONSIBILITIES

As Design Manager, Roy is responsible for the overall management of the Design and Consenting of projects, with support from the Project and Commercial Management team. Roy manages key relationships with consultants and Councils and works closely with the client team to ensure timely design and consenting of projects. He remains involved throughout the lifecycle of projects to ensure the original design objectives are respected and the design achieves everything the client desires.
